

WILL LEAVE BRITAIN OUT OF CONFERENCE

FIRMER POLICY DETERMINED ON AT WASHINGTON.

Work Begins Saturday - Diplomats Of Russia, Japan and America Gather
To Discuss Means to Preserve the
Seal Herds - President's Message
Likely to Astonish Salisbury

Washington, Oct. 19.—President McKinley proposes to take a decided stand in favor of American rights in the seal-catching waters and to give Great Britain notice that hereafter a different policy is to prevail.

The conference of representatives of the United States, Russia and Japan in reference to the preservation of fur seals has much more in it than appears on the surface. The conference opens at the state department Saturday, the Russian delegates already having arrived, while the Japanese delegates arrived here Monday. It marks a distinctly new departure on the part of this government in dealing with the Bering Sea question, and it is the first move toward throwing off the dictation and evasive diplomacy of the British foreign office on the subject. For the first time Great Britain is to have a voice in a council which is to have a vital influence on the future of the seals.

President McKinley and his cabinet advisers attach much importance to the conference, and there is reason to believe that the president's coming message to congress will present the subject with a directness which Great Britain has not heard since Mr. Cleveland called a halt on the British encroachments on Venezuela.

Among administration officials the last twenty-four hours. Total case most satisfactory feature of the conference is the readiness shown by Russia and Japan to join hands with the United States and the disposition of those powers to take an advanced position for the preservation of the seals. The position of Russia already is known. She has the most stringent regulations against foreign poachers, and she comes here anxious to have the United States and Japan adopt these radical regulations and also to urge that they be made even more radical.

Woman's Work

Is never done, and it is especially wearing and wearisome to those whose blood is impure and unfit properly to tone, sustain, and renew the wasting of nerve, muscle and tissue. It is more because of this condition of the blood that women are run down,

Tired, Weak, Nervous,
Than because of the work itself. Every physician says so, and that the only remedy is in building up by taking a good nerve tonic, blood purifier and vitalizer like Hood's Sarsaparilla. For the troubles Peculiar to Women at change of season, climate or life, or resulting from hard work, nervousness, and impure blood, thousands have found relief and cure in

WANT NEW BRIDGE AND TOOL HOUSE

ALDERMEN DISCUSS MUCH NEEDED IMPROVEMENTS.

Mayor Directs a Committee of Five
To Inquire About the Price of a
Modern Iron Structure—Roller to Be Put Under Cover—Earlier
Meetings Wanted.

The first steps for a new iron bridge across the river at Milwaukee street were taken last evening when the mayor declared the old bridge to be rotten and unsafe and told the committee to get prices on a modern structure.

Steps were also taken to provide a place of shelter for the steam roller and the street tools owned by the city. The roller is now left out of doors and the tools are scattered all over town. The highway and bridge committee had the chief engineer draw up a plan and presented it to the council last evening. It was to this effect:

Janesville, Wis., Oct. 14, 1897. Alderman C. K. Miltimore, Chairman Highway, Street and Bridge Committee. Dear Sir—As requested, I herewith submit to you, and through you to the committee and common council, a plan by which the fire department can take charge of the street roller and care for it through the winter season. If adopted, in my opinion, it will prove economy for the city, especially when it is stated that the city is now paying $60 a year ground rental for the shed just north of the west side fire station; $40 a year for rent of an old shed on North Jackson street for storing city tools; $25 a year for ground rental for the fifth ward voting booth—making a total yearly rental of $125, leaving the steam roller and two scrapers unprovided for.

"The plan which I believe to be the best, is to purchase a lot on Center avenue, erect there a building in which to store the steam roller, the road scrapers, and city tools. The fifth ward voting booth could be located on the same lot. In preparing plans or specifications for a building of this nature, they should be drawn so that in the future, if thought advisable, a fire station could be easily annexed to accommodate the steam fire engine and a small hose company. A house can be built to accommodate all the above apparatus at a cost not to exceed two thousand dollars.

"Our fire department is now the smallest, or more properly the lightest, of any of the third class cities of the state, and in my opinion it should be strengthened by a hose company of two men located at this point, where the steam fire engine could be housed, ready for a down grade run to any point where it is likely to be needed for extinguishing fires.

"With a hose company located at this point, consisting of two men—one of whom should be an engineer capable of running either the steam roller or fire engine; the other a driver—the city would be better off, and in the end would save money, as the roller would be properly cared for at all times, the road scrapers would be cared for in like manner, and the city tools stored therein would be in charge of a guardian.

"By adopting such a plan the city would not only save the rentals above named, but would provide ample accommodations for all its road machinery and tools, strengthen the fire department and relieve the city shed building on North River street, which could be easily removed and remodeled for a permanent voting booth.

"I have plans already drawn for a fire station which can be easily altered to suit and provide accommodations outlined. Respectfully,
"JOHN C. SPENCER,
"Chief Engineer."

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Janesville, Wis., October 18, 1897. C. K. MILTIMORE, S. C. BURNHAM, F. E. FIFIELD, Committee.

Alderman Burnham and Miltimore were inclined to favor Chief Spencer's plan and Mayor Thoroughgood appointed a committee to investigate the matter, the members being Alderman Miltimore, Burnham, Jones, McKay and Rice.

When the bridge matter came up there was but one opinion expressed as to the need of a new structure but Alderman Stoddard thought that Court street needed a new bridge just as much.

Considerable routine business was transacted in the way of allowing bills and passing on reports and Mayor Thoroughgood announced that hereafter if there was no quorum ten minutes after the time of meeting, 7:30 o'clock, there would be no meeting.

EARLY JOHNSTOWN DAYS

Henry Johnson's Removal Brings Back Recollections of Stage Coach Times.

H. B. Johnson's removal from Johnstown to this city recalls early days on the Johnstown road. No railroads reached Janesville in those days and the old fashioned four horse stage coaches were the only public conveyances. Johnstown was the main Milwaukee road in those days. There were taverns about every five miles. One of these taverns was kept by Mr. Johnson at Johnstown and even in these days of luxury he doubts whether the traveling public have the good times now as they had when they stopped with him. To stop over two or three days was nothing for a man to do in those days.

VERNONA JARBEAU IN TROUBLE

"The Paris Doll" Show Had Exciting Time While Showing Chicago.

"The Paris Doll" which was booked for the Myers opera house Thursday evening had an exciting time of it in Chicago. Saturday evening. The Metropolitan Job Printing Company of New York claims that $500 is due from the theatrical company on a bill for lithographing, and after Saturday evening's performance at MeVicker's theater a deputy sheriff seized the scenery and costumes of the company. The actors and stage hands had been warned that a visitor armed with a writ was expected. The stage door was kept locked on the outside, the key being taken out and thrust into the pocket of the door keeper after each member of the cast was admitted. No one was allowed to come out after he had once passed in. The trouble was finally righted.

In consequence of numerous troubles the Janesville date has been canceled. The company expects to be here later.

THIS IS A CELERY CENTER

Janesville Has a Large Celery Farm Within Its Limits.

The piece of land bordering on Spring Brook and a part of the old Burr Robbins' farm which has always been a bog is now in part a celery farm. M. S. Jeffris and William Campbell, the owners of the property are having it drained and it already has developed into very rich productive soil, especially adapted for celery growing. About an acre of very choice White Plume celery has been raised this year, the quality and flavor being very fine. The plants will be taken up the latter part of November and people wishing fresh celery during the fall or winter should leave orders at once at 306 S. Academy street or with A. Rider's near the Grand Hotel. Plants can be put into the cellar and kept the entire winter, so that celery can be had fresh as you wish to use it. From two to three dozen plants will supply a fair sized family.

WHERE IS VINCENTS BOAT

Lake Koshkonong Sailing Craft Suddenly Lost—Hunters Look Wise.

Albert Vincent of Lake Koshkonong, owned a sail boat last week. That is not saying that he still owns one. During the duck shooting season Mr. Vincent aroused the wrath of hunters by cruising about the lake with sails set, frightening away every duck within half a mile. The old timers who shot on those waters before sail boats were invented couldn't stand that kind of work. A committee called on Vincent but his pleading had little effect. Vincent sailed about as proudly as ever. He tied his boat to the same old wharf and with the same old piece of rope. Sometime during the night she must have broken away for nobody has seen her since. Hunters say nothing, but look wise.

LITTLE KNOWN ABOUT EWING

Milton Junction People Do Not Remember the Missing Man.

William Ewing who is declared by Mrs. Sydney Hurd to have been murdered by Frederick McAdams is about as little known in Milton Junction as if he had never lived there. He was a tramp painter who stayed around town two or three months in 1895, then disappeared between two days, supposedly to avoid his creditors. A few people remember him but the majority of Milton Junction business men can tell little or nothing as to his appearance. Careful inquiry by a Gazette man failed to disclose a dozen men who were positive that they could identify Ewing in case he turned up alive.

MURDERED MAN KNOWN HERE

Local Rail Road Crews Frequently Visited Beaman at Fond Du Lac.

John Beaman, proprietor of the Beaman hotel at Fond du Lac, who was murdered by a Will Payne, is well known in this city where he has numerous warm friends. Local railroad men whose runs on the Wisconsin division carried them into Fond du Lac were daily visitors at the Beaman hotel. Beaman, they say, was a peaceable, kind hearted man, the last one in the world to look for trouble.

THREE TRAIN CREWS ADDED

Seven Firemen Have Been Dropped on This Division However.

On this division of the Northwestern road three train crews were added and seven firemen laid off last week. The change took place at Baraboo. This is rather an unusual combination, and comes about through older firemen returning from other divisions and the fact that so many new firemen were taken on.

Festivals and Parties.....

Will awaken in the feminine heart longing for an evening gown. We never had such a fine lot of silks, velvets, accordion chiffon, in lovely effects; mousseline de soie puffing, a dreamy creation, lace nets and heavy embroidered all overs in cream, white and two tone; a world of trimmings; exquisite things in jeweled bands, applique novelties, rich embroidered bands in white and cream; laces, a perfectly immense line, the very latest novelties, nothing lacking. Hardly a thing that we cannot supply. There is little excuse for any woman to go away from this city for dress goods and pay bigger prices. The reason advanced by some for trading in other cities is a weak one, for we can suggest hundreds of rich combinations for dresses, so that no two suits need be the same.

That would lead you to keep the old curtains hanging, think better of it. The trifling cost of a pair of curtains, as we sell them, should not come between you and new draperies. Besides all the newest things in lace curtains, we show beautiful new heavy curtains in Tapestry, Brocatelles, Velours, Bagdads, Chenille, Roman, &c. It's a treat to see such an assortment of rich curtains and a relief to know that such a small outlay will secure them.

THE OVERFLOW OF LOCAL NEWS.

BLEEDING PILES.

And all other forms of this common and often dangerous disease readily cured without pain or inconvenience. Thousands of men and women are afflicted with some sort of piles without either knowing the exact nature of the trouble, or knowing it, are careless enough to let it run without taking the simple means offered for a radical cure. The failure of salves and ointments to permanently cure piles has led many to believe the only cure is a surgical operation.

Surgical operations are dangerous to life, and moreover not often entirely successful at this time are no longer used by the best physicians or recommended by them.

The safest and surest way to cure any case of piles, whether blind, bleeding or protruding, is to use the Pyramid Pile Cure, composed of healing vegetable oils, and absolutely free from mineral poisons and opiates. The following letter from a Pittsburg gentleman, a severe sufferer from bleeding piles, gives some idea of the prompt, effective character of this pile cure. He writes:

I take pleasure writing these few lines to let you know that I did not sleep for three months except for a short time each night because of a bad case of bleeding piles. I was down in bed and the doctors did me no good. A good brother told me of the Pyramid Pile Cure and I bought from my druggist three fifty cent boxes. They cured me and I will soon be able to go to work again. WILLIAM HANDSCHUT, 46 St. Cotton Alley, below Butter St., Pittsburg, Pa.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is not only the safest and surest remedy for piles, but is the best known and most popular. Every physician and druggist in the country knows it and what it will do.

Send for little book on cause and cure of piles, describing all forms of piles and the proper treatment.

The Pyramid can be found at all drug stores at 50 cents per package.

GIFT FROM 'BROTHER BULLS'

Silver Service Presented to W. A. Rouse By Order of the Elephant.

W. A. Patrick sends the Gazette a copy of the Kansas City "Times" describing the presentation of a silver service to press agent W. A. Rouse by the Ancient Exalted Order of the Elephant. It was perhaps the most picturesque ceremony ever held beneath a circus canvas and was witnessed by nearly 1000 employees of the Ringling show. Mr. Patrick escorted Mr. Rouse from the dressing room and following them came the band and one hundred "Brother Bulls" flanking upon either side a score of gigantic elephants richly caparisoned in lodge regalia and colors. During the presentation speech by the Koomra Sami the stage was surrounded by elephants with trunks raised in royal salute and the elephants trumpeted shrilly when the buglers sounded "taps."

Daily Paper for Catholics.

Washington, Oct. 19.—One of the important subjects to be discussed by the Catholic archbishops, who will meet here this week, is the establishment of a daily paper, to be published in New York and Chicago.

Since 1886 this matter has been under consideration. Now, it is thought, the time is ripe for the launching of such a paper, and the venture may be tried.

OPERATORS WEAR UNIFORMS

Northwestern Road Sends Out Another Uniform Order Affecting Telegraphers

And now its the operators on the Chicago & Northwestern road that must provide themselves with uniforms. Not long ago an order was promulgated from headquarters providing that all baggagemen and ticket agents in the employ of the company be attired in a regulation uniform. Now the operators have been notified that they too, must be attired in a similar manner while on duty. On Wednesday a party of tailors started from Chicago taking the measurements of the men along the line. The new order affects both day and night men. The new uniforms will be very neat looking and will greatly add to the appearance of employees of the road. They are of the regulation blue, trimmed with brass buttons. The caps will have a gold band around them. The word "Operator" will also be placed in gold letters upon the caps.

OVER A CENTURY OLD.

James Reuben the Oldest Living Seneca Indian. Hale and Hearty to-day. To What he Owes His Wonderful Age.

We find around us everywhere men who are young in years, but who in body are actually old and decrepit. This premature old age is becoming more common every year. Thousands are continually dying who are scarcely 30 years of age, from a complete worn out state of their systems, just as literally of old age as though they had lived to be 100, and the cause of this is due to a general demoralized condition of the great vital organs of the body—the stomach, the liver, the kidneys and the blood; let any of these become impaired and the blood instead of flowing through the body and carrying nourishment to all its parts, becomes filled with poisonous secretions which generate and multiply continually, ceasing to build up new flesh tissue, so that a gradual wasting and decay takes place until the day comes when a complete collapse is experienced and speedy death ensues.

The Indian is noted for his longevity, due to the fact that he takes no medicine that contains poisonous ingredients, but depends upon his famous Kickapoo Indian Sagwa entirely, which is purely vegetable, made from roots, barks, gums and herbs of the forest. James Reuben, the oldest living Seneca Indian attributes his long life to the use of this wonderful medicine, and is enthusiastic in its praise.

This wonderful remedy rectifies all disorders of the great vital organs, but above all purifies the blood and enables it to perform its natural function, imparting life and vigor to all parts of the system.

Let a man have perfect digestion and pure blood, and there is a continual restoration of waste tissue taking place in the body. Without this there is a decline. If you feel that you have not your ordinary strength, you do not sleep as you should, your appetite is fitful, you are nervous, have dizzy spells and seem generally run-down, you should not hesitate a minute, for this is the beginning of some serious decline. While you still have strength and life take Kickapoo Indian Sagwa. A change for the better will be experienced with the first bottle, and a speedy return to health will be the result in every instance. Follow the Indian's example, and share with him long life and health. This famous remedy is now sold by all druggists, $1 a bottle, six bottles for $5.

SAY A $50,000 THIEF WAS IN JAIL HERE

LAWRENCE WILBUR SAID TO BE DEFAULTER.

Indiana Officers Think the Opera Singer Who Shot Thomas Butters Was Cashier Charles H. Cadwallader, Wanted in Union City For A $50,000 Embezzlement.

A fine fat reward seems to have slipped through the fingers of the Janesville officers. If the telegrams sent by Indianapolis, Chicago and Milwaukee parties prove true Lawrence Wilbur who was locked up for shooting Thomas Butters at the Hotel London last Wednesday was not Lawrence Wilbur at all but a man who skipped with $50,000.

The police are hot on the trail of Charles H. Cadwallader, the Indianapolis defaulter and say that he has been traveling with an opera company under the name of Wilbur.

Chief Acheson is being kept busy answering telegrams and is reasonable certain that Wilbur is the man. A photograph of Cadwallader is on the way from Indianapolis and every effort is being made to find out where Wilbur went after leaving this city.

Members of the company bought him a ticket as far as Chicago and he told some of them he was going east, while others supposed he was going to St. Louis. At the Hotel London he declared that he had a wife in a Philadelphia stock company, but afterwards said that his father was a wholesale shoe manufacturer in St. Louis.

There is a big reward for Defaulter Cadwallader's arrest and the Rock county sheriff has every reason to be sorry that the shooting case was settled so speedily.

Cadwallader skipped out from Union City, Ind., in 1896, taking considerable cash. How much he took nobody knows but he left a $50,000 hole in the cash reserve of the Union National bank. Officers have been seeking him everywhere, having received numerous hints that he had not left the country.

One of the dispatches received by Sheriff Acheson connecting Wilbur with the Indiana crime was this dispatch from Winchester, Ind.:

"Sheriff Rock County, Wis.—Understand you have C. H. Cadwallader arrested under the name of Lawrence Wilbur. He is wanted here on twelve indictments for embezzlement. Have sent you photograph and letter. Wire tonight if he can be got on requisition."

DAVID B. STRAHAN, Sheriff.

The descriptions of Cadwallader sent from Indiana are all very fragmentary but agree fairly well with Wilbur's description. Wilbur is a man of medium height and weighed about 300 pounds. He had a large nose, thin face, brown hair and dark eyes and was about twenty-six years old. He constantly played with a buffalo horn cane of which he was very proud. The description of Cadwallader's weight, height and complexion fitted Wilbur, but it would fit six men out of ten about as well and it is assumed that the similarity of appearance is by no means the only point which leads to the desire for Wilbur's arrest.

WOODWARD WAS DISMISSED

Clinton Druggist Arraigned in Court For Keeping Unlicensed Clerk.

O. L. Woodward the Clinton druggist was the defendant in a suit brought this afternoon in Justice L. F. Paten's court.

Complaining witnesses stated that Woodward employed an unlicensed drug clerk.

It became evident that spite had a part in the case, however, and after one witness had been examined Secretary E. B. Heimstreet of the state board of pharmacy arose and asked that the case be dismissed, saying that the board of pharmacy would not prosecute in any case where the evidence showed personal enmity.

BANK OF EDGERTON CLOSES ITS DOORS

TOBACCO TOWN HAS A FINANCIAL SHOCK.

Settling of the Hutson Estate Said to Have Brought the Trouble About—Investigation Begun At Ten O'clock And The Bank Does Not Open.

The bank of Edgerton closed its doors today.

The failure is not serious as affecting general business of the town but is extremely unfortunate coming as it does at the beginning of the tobacco business.

The doors of the bank were closed at ten o'clock this morning a slip being put up which read:

"Bank closed until two o'clock for investigation."

When 2 o'clock came the bank was not re-opened and it was announced that an assignment had been made to L. H. Towne.

The officers of the Bank of Edgerton are:

President—J. P. Towne.

Vice President—R. C. Carter.

Cashier—C. L. Burnham.

The largest block of stock in the bank is held by the Hutson estate.

The John Hurd estate also holds a large block and other stockholders besides the officers are Henry Marsden of Edgerton, and John Pierson of Fulton.

Considerable of the stock is in small blocks and scattered.

It is understood that the Hutson estate and Cashier C. L. Burnham together own somewhat more than a controlling interest.

The assignment was brought about, according to Edgerton dispatches, by the settling up of the Hutson estate.

The last statement of the bank was clear and showed a large preponderance of assets over liabilities. The capital of the bank was $50,000.

Attorney A. A. Jackson was called to Edgerton this morning to look over the affairs of the bank and is preparing assignment papers.

DID HE FORGE THE NAME

Notes Amounting to $1000 Involved in the Moore Case.

Did James E. Moore forge his brother's name to notes amounting to $1000? Judge John K. Bennett is now wrestling with this question at Monroe, while A. P. Barnum, S. B. Smith and J. E. Croft, of this city, have been in attendance at the trial as experts on signatures. They appear as witnesses on the part of the plaintiff while John N. Purcell, who was formerly connected with the Capital City bank, at Madison, is one of the experts for the defense.

James E. Moore was engaged in the farm implement business at Monticello. A year ago last spring he disappeared very mysteriously. When he was in business there he overdraw his account $1,400 at the bank of Monticello. The bank officers spoke to him about it. He said his brother J. L. Moore would give his security and four notes, two for $400 and two for $300 were prepared and handed to him and he returned them to the bank with his brother's signature. The notes were accepted, but after Moore disappeared signing only one of the $400 notes. The signatures on the other three notes were pronounced a forgery and the action now being tried was brought to recover from J. L. Moore the full amount the notes represent. Duwiddie & Wheeler of this city, and A. S. Douglass of Monroe, appear for the plaintiffs.

OPERATOR HELD UP AND DEPOT ROBBED

THIEVES MAKE A HAUL IN ELKHORN.

Night Agent of the C. M. & St. P. is Visited By a Couple of Men Who Push a Revolver Under His Ear And Make Him Give Up His Keys.

The night operator of the C. M. & St. P. depot in Elkhorn was held up by two thieves last night. There were two men in the waiting room which was dark. The operator went out to fix the fire, when he turned around he found a pistol under his ear. He clapped his hands to his vest pocket where he kept his watch and one of the thieves yelled:

"Throw up your hands."

He obeyed so promptly that he pulled off watch and chain and the watch hung dangling from his upraised hands. The thieves took his keys and got $23 from the money drawer but gave the operator back his gold watch and the dollar they found in his pocket.

"If you give the alarm," they said, "before we have gone an hour we will shoot your head off."

Two minutes after they left the station, however, he had the sheriff at the end of the telephone line and the pursuit begun. One deputy went as far as Clinton along the track but got no trace of the men.

Janesville officers were notified today.

THE LOGS.

In thronged procession gliding slow
The great logs sullenly seaward go.

A blind and blundering multitude
They jostle on the swollen flood

Nor guess the inevitable fate
To meet them at the river gate

When noiseless hours have lured them down
To the wide booms, the busy town,

The mills, the chains, the screaming jaws
Of the eviscerating saws.

Here in the murmur of the stream,
Slow journeying, perchance they dream

And hear once more their branches sigh
Far up the solitary sky.

Once more the rain winds softly moan
Where sways the high green top alone.

Once more the inland eagles call
From the white crag that broods o'er all.

But if beside some meadowy brink
Where flowering willows lean to drink,

Some open beach at the river bend
Where shallows in the sun extend,

They for a little would delay
The huge tide hurries them away.

ROLAND'S WIFE.

It was scorchingly hot in Carminster one July afternoon. The streets were empty. Even the cathedral rooks were dozing, and the only signs of life seemed to be the chatter dimly heard through the door of the quaint old inn.

In the great cathedral it was less sunny, but almost equally close and oppressive.

Roland de la Fanu felt as if the heat and dust of centuries were somehow shut into that vast nave and as if historical associations weighed on his tired brain.

He was one of a party being "shown round" the building. Here was the inevitable would be archaeologist, now positive, anon doubtful of his dates, two or three clergymen, a schoolmaster and his class and a few young girls.

In the crypt it was cooler, but damp and musty smelling. Through the heavy oak door passed the weary, but garrulous verger, his chattering flock at his heels. Then began more tiresome discussions about slypes and squints.

"This 'ere," said the verger, raising his not too musical voice to drown the talking of the others—"this 'ere was once the private chapel of the De la Fanus. That stone marks where the altar stood. Over here is where Sir Gilbert Archemont defied the abbot in the year thirteen hundred and fifty. Notice this 'ere dog tooth molding—most perfect example of its kind in England."

"There is finer at Canterbury," growled some one.

"Pardon me, you must mean Lincoln—or is it York that I am thinking of?" said the archaeologist.

The descendant of the De la Fanus turned aside to his sister. She smiled and put her arm through his.

"I am so tired!" she whispered.

"Never mind, dear. We've nearly done, and we could not have left without seeing our old family tombs, so"—

"The De la Fanu tombs," broke in the panting verger. "They date back to 1310. This is the oldest of them all. Notice the rich work round the sides, and, as you see, the figure is missing from the top. It is the wife of old Sir Roland de la Fanu, who died in the 'Oly Land. His wife died of grief three days after the sad news reached her. The effigy is said to have been stolen though some there are who say that life was given to it and it walked. I don't 'old with that myself. On this side are the tombs of Reginald and Sir Bevis de la Fanu."

Roland spoke to the girl next him.

"The effigy," said he, "that is missing from that tomb is the one of all others that I should most have liked to see. She was our great, great—I really cannot say how great—grandmother and, oh, I beg your pardon. I thought you were my sister."

It was a tall, slight girl, wrapped in a light grayish dust cloak, to whom he had spoken, and who now responded gracefully and with a shade of amusement in her manner.

The sudden darkness from the dark crypt to the brilliant sunshine was bewildering. Roland and his sister stumbled along to the monastery ruins, and then, seated on a heap of fallen stone-work, they rested. He was disappointed on looking round for his cloaked divinity to find that she had not followed them.

In Carminster a quiet night succeeds the peaceful day. Roland, sitting by his window, watched the round moon rising behind the fretted spire of the cathedral and was filled with a sudden longing.

His stay in the place had been brief and would end early on the morrow. The sketches he had made were few, and his visits to the cathedral had always been paid in company with others, in the "improving" society of the dean or in that of the unsympathetic verger. What if he were to steal out now, when the garish day was done and the moon high in the clear sky?

Yes, he would, he must go. The temptation was not to be resisted. He would study tracery and carving under the magic light which made their beauties seem as something unearthly. He rose and left the room, treading softly so as not to disturb the other inmates of the house. Quietly as he went the dean, sitting at work in the study, heard him and opened his door.

"Anything amiss, Roland?" he asked cheerfully.

Roland, half ashamed, confessed his romantic ideas to his host, who surprised him by sympathizing with them.

"By all means. Our lovely cathedral never looks more exquisite than by moonlight."

"I should like," said Roland taking courage, "to have one more look at the tombs and chapel of my ancestors before I leave."

"Certainly, certainly. You are a direct descendant of Joan de la Fanu, are you not?"

"Yes. And I don't thank the vandals who stole her effigy. I should have preferred that they had taken any of the others."

"Have you copied her epitaph yet, or sketched the tomb?"

"No, I have had no good opportunity, but I should uncommonly like to do so before I go, and I shall not have time tomorrow."

He spoke wistfully, and the dean laughed.

"Here, then," said he. "I see what you are fishing for. Take the keys. This large one opens the little north-west door, whence a staircase leads straight down to the back of the chapel. You can't make a mistake, only do not fall down the broken stairs, do not lose the keys, do not forget to lock up after you and, above all, don't set the place alight, or I'll never forgive you."

Roland promised everything required of him and went off.

Roland sought and soon found the little door to which he had been directed and from which the steps led straight down into the crypt of the cathedral. The key made but little noise, even in the great stillness, and Roland, groping his way down, soon found himself at the back of the little chapel and in great darkness. Closing his eyes for a while to accustom them to the change, he could soon distinguish the outlines of the arches and moved forward quite confidently.

Some might have thought the hour and place eerie, but Roland was neither nervous nor superstitious and boldly advanced to where the moonlight, finding oblique entrance through the grating in the roof and near one of the great windows of the cathedral above him, shone clearly and brightly over the tombs.

It has been said that he was neither nervous nor superstitious, but suddenly he stopped short, and the throbbing of his own heart seemed for the moment to startle him, for here, just before him, within touch of his hand, was the great table tomb and extended upon it, apparently, a recumbent female figure.

Whoever, whether mortal or superhuman workman, had made such an effigy was possessed of no ordinary skill. The exquisite suggestion of repose conveyed by the graceful posture, the arrangement of the sculptured folds of raiment, the beautifully chiseled features, all were alike lovely, and Roland gazed at them long, as if he were literally entranced and not under the influence of some delusion of the senses, some trick of overexcited nerves, which must soon fade away.

He fell on his knees on the stepped base of the monument and gently laid his lips on the little white fingers which were so temptingly near him. As he did so a thrill seemed to pass through him and through the figure on the tomb. The delicate eyelids quivered, the shadowy lips parted in a faint sigh, and the next instant his statue was indeed imbued with life and spoke:

"Where am I? Oh, where am I?"

Roland repressed the suggestion that she was reclining on her own tomb and spoke gently and as if her present position were a matter of course:

"You are in the crypt of Carminster cathedral."

The effigy sat up, pressing her cold hands to her now burning temples. Then she raised her great dark eyes to Roland's face.

"I got shut in," she said simply. "I lingered a moment to look at this tomb, because—well, because you were so much interested in it, and the verger never missed me—the pillars hid me. I heard the key grate in the lock and ran and called and banged, but no one came, and, oh, I was so frightened!" She was quivering with cold and shock, and Roland supported and comforted her. "But for you I might have staid here in this awful place all night," she murmured.

"It's simply horrible!" she went on. "You wouldn't believe what noises there are when it's empty and no one here. What made you come back? Was it to look for me?" she asked naively.

He told her then how and why he had come back, giving her time to wipe away a few stray tears, which she hoped he did not see and to pull off the necktie from about her head. Then he found her hat for her in a shadowy nook and prepared to take her home.

She was glad of the support of his arm, and the clinging touch of her fingers sent a thrill through him which he seemed to feel long after they had parted.

"I recognized you again at once," she said to him as they ascended the rickety staircase together.

"I, too, remember you quite well. We were fellow tourists or sightseers this morning, and I have thought of you many times since and always as the lady in the gray cloak."

She smiled very humbly.

"My real name," she said simply, "is Joan."

Roland started slightly, and as he pressed her hand at parting murmured beneath his breath:

"By the Will of God, Joan, the beloved wife of Roland de la Fanu, Knight and Gentleman,—Princess."

"Humble Circumstances."

PEARLS AND PEARL SHELLS.

Treasures That Are Taken from the Indian Ocean and Persian Gulf.

In St. Nicholas Capt. H. D. Smith of the United States revenue coast service tells of his experiences "Hunting for Shells," from the Island of Ceylon to the Dry Tortugas. Capt. Smith says:

Pearl shells are valuable, and fine specimens are hard to obtain. They are found in the Treamotee, Gambier and Trihual group of Islands. The choicest from Macassar. These are the white-edged shells, worth $800 a ton, and from these the finest pearl buttons are manufactured.

The most celebrated pearl fisheries lie near the coast of Ceylon, the Persian Gulf, and in the waters of Java and Sumatra. The Australian coast in the neighborhood of Shank's Bay and Roebuck Bay furnishes some very large shells, some of them weighing from two to three pounds each. The fisheries of Baja, Gulf of California, are very rich, France controlling the gems procured there. The meat of the pearl oyster is bought by the Chinamen, who dry the leathery little bivalves, or seal them up in cans and ship them to their countrymen in San Francisco. The pearl shells readily sell upon the spot at from $1.50 to $5 per pound.

Pearls and tears have for ages been associated, and the magic virtues of the pearl were held in high esteem in early times, as they are to-day with the East Indians.

It is said that Queen Margaret Tudor, consort of James IV. of Scotland, previous to the battle of Flodden Field, had many presentiments of the disastrous issue of that conflict, owing to a dream she had three nights in succession, that jewels and sparkling coronets were suddenly turned into pearls—which the superstitious believed was a sign of coming widowhood and of tears.

Pearls are of various colors, and in India the red pearls were highly prized by the Buddhists, who used them in adorning. Pearls are formed to protect the shell fish. They are due to a secretion of a shelly substance around some irritating particle, and their composition is the same as that of mother-of-pearl.

Buddhist Remains in Java.

The fact is not generally appreciated that there are ruins of Buddhist and Brahmanic temples in middle Java surpassing in extent and magnificence anything to be seen in Egypt or India. There, in the heart of the steaming tropics, in that summer land of the world below the equator, on an island where volcanoes cluster more thickly and vegetation is richer than in any other region of the globe, where earthquakes continually rock and shatter and where deluges descend during the rainy half of the year, remains nearly intact the temple of Boro Bodor, covering almost the same area as the great pyramid of Gizeh. It is ornamented with hundreds of life size statues and miles of bas-reliefs presenting the highest examples of Greco-Buddhist art—a sculptured record of all the arts and industries, the culture and civilization, of the golden age of Java, of the life of the seventh, eighth and ninth centuries in all the farther east, a record that is not written in hieroglyphs, but in plainest pictures carved by sculptor's chisel. That solid pyramidal temple, rising in magnificent sculptured terraces, that was built without mortar or cement, without column or pillar or arch, is one of the surviving wonders of the world. On the spot it seems a veritable miracle.—Eliza Ruhamah Scitmore in Century.

ELASTIC STARCH

A GREAT INVENTION REQUIRES NO COOKING.

MAKES COLLARS AND CUFFS STIFF AND NICE AS WHEN FIRST BOUGHT NEW.

PREPARED FOR LAUNDRY PURPOSES ONLY

ONE POUND OF THIS STARCH WILL GO AS FAR AS A POUND AND A HALF OF ANY OTHER STARCH.

MANUFACTURED ONLY BY THE J.C. HUBINGER BROS. CO.

KEOKUK, IOWA. NEW HAVEN, CONN.

ELASTIC STARCH has been before the people of the United States for twenty-three years and is without count the greatest starch invention of the Nineteenth Century. Last year its sale reached the unprecedented number of twenty million packages. It is prepared upon scientific principles by men who have had years of practical experience in fancy laundrying. It makes ironing easy, restores old worn dresses to their natural whiteness, and imparts to linen a soft and lasting finish. It is the only starch manufactured that is perfectly harmless, containing neither arsenic, alum, or any other substance injurious to linen, and can be used even as a baby powder.

A Little More Cost Brings Big Profits.

The addressing, folding, inclosing, sealing and stamping of five thousand circulars, with postage will cost at least $65, whether the circulars be good or bad. Notwithstanding this fixed charge, some strive to save a dollar or two (the cost of printing, although the goods advertised are to be judged by the character of the printing, just as a house is judged by the character of its salesmen. Good printing costs but little more, and that "little more" brings great returns than any other part of the cost. Order your printing where good work is assured.
